for e Shodh Sindhu Consortium member institutions

on 30th JUNE, TUESDAY at 2.30 PM

by David Bull

Vice President, Journals, Humanities & Social Sciences, Springer Nature

WHAT WILL BE COVERED –

There is a not unreasonable perception that Springer Nature is a science publisher. But with 650 journals and nearly 50% of our ebook collection being broad Humanities and Social Sciences (HSS) publications such a perception would miss much of what we are, what we do and what we provide. In this presentation David will concentrate on Springer Nature's HSS journal portfolio, placing it within the context of the wider SN research business, presenting highlights, initiatives and challenges (including our specific India programme), and particularly as we migrate to a world of open research. At the same time David will address why, more than ever now in a world being shaped by the Covid-19 pandemic, racial tensions and state and regional rivalries, we need the insights and perspectives of the Humanities and Social Sciences to address our global and societal challenges.
